ABOUT

Snehasadan is a non-governmental organization based in Mumbai, India, dedicated to providing a home and future for homeless street children. Over the past 62 years, Snehasadan has provided shelter to over 30,000 children, helping them escape life on the streets and gain access to shelter, education, and a supportive family environment.

MISSION

To be a home for homeless children, regardless of caste or creed, provide a shelter for the homeless orphans, waifs, destitute and delinquents, economically poor and socially discriminated, who roam almost every quarter of Mumbai.

AIM

Snehasadan's aim is to reach out to the homeless children, find out what were the reasons for which they are on the streets, trace their families and reunite them with their families wherever possible. Where family tracing is not possible, or the children are orphans, Snehasadan becomes their home and provides them with the environment for holistic growth and development.

Letter from our leader

It is child's primary right to be with the parents. Shelter home is the last resort for any child to be there. Though various situations have brought children to Snehasadan, it has been our constant efforts to make sure that the children in Snehasadan feel at home. Therefore, we do not call Snehasadan a shelter home or an orphanage, we always call it a home.

Children should grow up in homely environment. Education is another stepping stone for them to get out of vicious circle of destituteness. We want all our children to excel in life.
